I realize that you do not know exactly the kind of timeframes and dynamics you will be working within, but I encourage you very strongly to remember the States and the tribes in the process here this time around. Let me go to one other aspect of this. It is my understanding that the use of both independent and Federal, State and tribal scientific analysis was very useful in the mid-to the late - 1990 s. At that point, I think we called it PATH or other scientific efforts were underway. I do not know that an exact reconvening of PATH is what I am talking about, but maybe. But I am wondering how and when you intend to include the State and tribal fisheries biologists in this process, as well as stakeholders. Mr. L. Senator, I would agree that PATH had a value in developing an understanding of the models used. I am afraid I do not share your same enthusiasm for some of the outcomes there. For example, the model that was developed by the larger group of participants in PATH by the coalition of States and tribes probably would have predicted that the runs we are now seeing were impossible. That is not to fault the process. It is simply to say there was both a process to understand and various agreements on modeling tools. e W did...
