Hart Brewer, of New Jersey: In the House of Representatives, Tuesday, May 6, 1884 On the bill (H. R. 5893) to reduce import duties and war-tariff taxes. Mr. Brewer, of New Jersey, said: Mr. Chairman: I said all that I wish to say on the tariff in my speech in the Forty-seventh Congress, and I could only reiterate the same. But since that time an article has been written upon the tariff which in my judgment surpasses all others for clearness of statement and conclusiveness of argument that have ever been written on that subject. It comes from the pen of the magnetic statesman, James G. Blaine, who I hope may be chosen as the standard-bearer of the principles lie so ably represents. In his Twenty Years of Congress, volume 1, pages 168 - 214, he says: The slavery question was not the only one which developed into a chronic controversy between certain elements of Northern opinion and certain elements of Southern opinion. A review of the sectional struggle would be incomplete if it did not embrace a narrative of those differences on the tariff which at times led to serious disturbance, and, on one memorable occasion, to an actual threat of resistance to the authority of the Government. The division upon the tariff was never so accurately defined by geographical lines as was the division upon slavery; but the aggressive elements on each side of both questions finally coalesced in the same States, North and South. Massachusetts and South Carolina marched in the vanguard of both controversies; and the States which respectively followed on the tariff issue were, in large...
