Not illustrated. 1917 Excerpt: .to him (which he may cash at once, as a separate transaction) and a credit slip is issued in favor of the cashier s account. This credit slip is then passed to the general bookkeeper. 2. At the close of the day, debit slips are made out for the footings of the Face of Note and Interest columns, and a credit slip is made out for the Discount column. These three slips are passed to the general bookkeeper. The sum of the credit slips issued for the separate proceeds items and the credit slip issued for the discount total equals the sum of the two debit slips issued. In some banks the loans and the discounts made are recorded in separate books, one known as a loan register and the other as a discount register. In the Crete National Bank, however, we combine the two records. When a customer borrows money of the bank, the bank may deduct the interest in advance and give the customer credit for the proceeds or it may give the customer credit for the full amount of the loan and collect the interest at the time the loan is paid. This is usually at the option of the cashier. The Draft Register. This book contains a list of all the drafts on its correspondents sold or issued by the bank. The book is usually divided in proportion to the number of correspondents the bank has, the rulings being alike. In the...
